The position of the brake pedal aside, the Town & CountryAAA's braking response is easy to control, and the firm pedal feel inspires confidence. The Town & Country has a fold-into-the-floor third-row seat, like many of its competitors, but it also features a tailgate-seating mode that lets you tilt it backward so you can sit with your legs hanging over the rear bumper. ThereAAA's also the optional UConnect Web system, which provides secure, high-speed wireless internet access in the Town & Country. Stow eAAA n Go is standard on all Town & Countrys and includes two bucket seats that fold into compartments in the floor. The cellular-based system is a dealer-installed option that costs $499 plus installation, and the monthly service fee is $29. Chrysler has moved beyond the basic DVD entertainment system by offering streaming entertainment options and mobile connectivity. Its third row isn'tAAA as comfortable as the SiennaAAA's or OdysseyAAA's because the bottom cushion is short and canted upward at an odd angle. The seats are small to accommodate this operation, and that means they're not the most comfortable for adult passengers. The Town & Country has a softly tuned suspension that's well-suited to minivan duty, where a comfortable ride is key.
